Archives and Libraries Grant Programme
Please note some changes due to COVID-19 regarding the submission of documentation.

Contents

Introduction

Thank you for your interest in applying to the Foundation. If you have applied to the Foundation before, you will be familiar with our two-stage application form. However, due to the impact of COVID-19, we have decided to have only one stage, as this will allow applicants more time to complete the application form. We appreciate the challenges in gathering all the documentation together, therefore, applicants are only required to submit certain documents later on if their application is successful. Please see page 8 for what must be submitted with the application.

Overview

The Archives and Libraries Grant Programme is designed to enable the countless repositories across Europe that house and preserve Jewish documentary heritage to be as accessible as possible. Accessibility can be achieved in a variety of ways: through conservation which renders a document available to readers without risk of further decay, through cataloguing initiatives which makes scholarly discovery possible, through professional training to ensure that those responsible for collections are able to accurately describe their contents and assist researchers in their searches; and through digitisation which enables accessibility on a global order.

To assist archives, libraries and other repositories in carrying out all these activities, the Foundation makes grants in the following areas:

- Digital Humanities Resource Development and Enhancement
- Conservation and Preservation
- Inventories and Cataloguing
- Professional Training
- Language Grants

Please note that not all of the above categories of funding will be offered every grant round. Please check the Foundation's website to determine which categories are currently open for applications.

Further information on the available categories are overleaf.

Preference will be given to those projects that further the Foundation's mission of making archival and library materials accessible so as to encourage future academic scholarship concerning European Jewish history, to make possible Jewish engagement with communal documentary heritage, and to make these records available for personal family research.

Length and Level of Support

We are often asked how much an organisation can request, or whether we have a restriction on the amount of funding we will award. In the Archives and Libraries Grant Programme, it would be rare to award a grant of more than £75,000 per year for a project (for a maximum of 3 years with a maximum total of £225,000).

Most of our grants in this programme are between £15,000 - £40,000 per year. In this programme, we usually only fund up to 70% of the project budget. In rare cases, we will fund a more significant proportion of the costs. Please note, requests for 100% of project funding are likely to be rejected.

Categories of Funding

Conservation and Preservation

Support is available for the conservation and/or preservation of all forms of archival and library materials pertaining to Jewish history. Projects can focus on the long-term protection and preservation of specific collections and/or the conservation (treatment and repair) of specific items. Within this category, preservation projects focused on providing the proper protective storage for any kind of archival and library materials are welcome. Applicants can apply for funding for the purchase and installation of the necessary storage materials, including acid-free protective folders, envelopes, boxes and other containers, as well as cabinets, shelving, or other necessary storage furnishings. Applications for temperature and humidity controls, fire protection and security systems will also be considered. Digitisation projects will also be considered—provided the application clearly explains the purpose for digitisation.

Professional institutions seeking funding for the preservation of their own collections may apply to this category.

Inventories and Cataloguing

The creation of an accurate and detailed catalogue allows institutions to fully understand their own holdings, it occasions the discovery of their collections by academic and independent researchers, and it invites the scrutiny of experts able to draw links between their records and those of other institutions. The production of a catalogue or an inventory is the first step towards entering a group of records into scholarly discourse. The following activities will be supported: the initial sorting and preliminary identification of collection holdings; a detailed analysis and cataloguing of collections; and the preparation, publication and dissemination of finding aids and catalogues.

Targeted collections can include manuscripts, documents, all forms of printed materials, and audio, film and video recording. Holding institutions might include – among others – public and private libraries, as well as public, institutional and private archives.

Professional Training

The Foundation supports the training of staff at all levels, including archivists, librarians, conservators, photographers, etc. This may include consultation visits by archival or library experts to European Jewish institutions, as well as learning trips by archival or library staff members seeking to visit experts based at other European institutions.

Language Grants

In response to the Covid-19 pandemic and given the world-wide travel restrictions, the Foundation offers this new grant category to enable Jewish heritage professionals to take an online course in Hebrew or any Jewish language (e.g. Yiddish, Judeo-Spanish) This opportunity is open to professionals working in a Jewish heritage institution (museum, library, archive, NGO, etc.) to take an online course in a Jewish language that can help them grow in their professional capacity. The course must be administered by an institution, whether university, community centre or language school, and must deliver a certificate of attendance. Grants up to £2000 are available to cover tuition to be paid directly to the language school upon receipt of an invoice, or as reimbursement upon presentation of a payment receipt.

Funds will be awarded to Jewish heritage professionals who

- Work professionally in Jewish heritage organizations of all types, including (but not limited to) museums, archives, libraries, NGOs. The work may be part-time but should be at least 16 hours per week.
- Are based in a European country
- Have at least 6 months of experience working professionally in the field of Jewish heritage
- Funds will not be given for training/learning opportunities that have already taken place

Please note that applications for the next 12 months are open as follows:

Deadline	Decision from Foundation
30 September 2020	14 October 2020
30 November 2020	15 December 2020
28 February 2021	15 March 2021
30 April 2021	15 May 2021
30 June 2021	15 July 2021

Digital Humanities Resource Development and Enhancement

Repositories of primary sources have an important role to play in the evolving landscape of digital humanities projects concerning Jewish history, literature and culture in Europe. In recognition of their unique potential, the Foundation invites European archives, libraries, memory institutions, and other research centres to submit proposals for the digitisation and transcription of Jewish archival or library collections, as well as the creation of accompanying metadata, using techniques such as OCR, TEI, or Linked Open Data. Successful proposals may include the enhancement of existing online databases, digital corpora, aggregating portals and other online resource types that give academic researchers and the interested public access to materials and open these sources up to new digital humanities research methods.

The Foundation particularly welcomes initiatives to incorporate Jewish heritage materials into more established projects, which address the inherently multilingual and multidisciplinary character of Jewish history and culture in Europe. Please note that these resources need not be exclusively focussed on Jewish history, and instead successful proposals may concern the inclusion of Jewish heritage materials into broad disciplinary, national or international projects.

Eligible costs include additional staff hours for the creation, processing and indexing of digital materials, the ongoing development of projects' technical architecture, equipment costs (no more than 35% of the overall budget), and travel for project partners to meet. The Foundation favours proposals that include multiple funding sources, as well as clear evidence of institutional commitment to the initiative in the form of gifts in kind and other forms of financial commitment.

Eligibility Criteria

We welcome applications from any organisation or institution active in Europe (EU and non-EU states alike), where activities are deemed charitable under UK charity law.

This includes organisations which are either not-for-profit or publicly funded. Within the framework of this grant programme, qualifying institutions are usually state or private libraries, archives, museums, research institutes, or universities. For more information please consult the UK Charity Commission's list of Charitable Purposes.

Your organisation must provide the Rothschild Foundation Hanadiv Europe with proof of its status as a not-for-profit or publicly funded organisation. Usually, applicants either submit their UK charity number where applicable, or a copy of the relevant portion of their organisational statutes, confirming its non-profit, charitable or public (government-funded) status. The Foundation supports a wide variety of projects at different stages of development, including stand-alone initiatives and new aspects of an existing project. However, we do not fund retroactively – i.e. request for funding of an activity that has already happened or is already scheduled to happen while the application for funding is under consideration are not eligible.

The Foundation prioritises applications for funding of project-related costs (e.g. storage materials, the salary of a cataloguer or digitisation equipment).

Grants requests may request up to 70% of the project budget. In rare cases, we will fund a more significant proportion of the costs. Applications requesting 100% of project costs are likely to be rejected.

Selection Criteria

The strength of your application will be assessed based on the answers to the following questions:

- Does the project reflect the goals of the Archives and Libraries Grant Programme?

- Are the organisation and its staff able to deliver the project?

- Is the planning of the project thorough, including sound objectives and evaluation measures?

- Does the proposed methodology adhere to generally accepted archival and library standards?

- Does the project budget reflect the scope of the project and the local context?

- Does the proposal include planning for the long-term future of the targeted collections?

- Is the impact of the project logical, measurable and achievable?

Simultaneous Applications

- Organisations are generally not permitted to submit more than one application at a time to the Archives and Libraries Grant Programme. However, you may apply for a Professional Training or Language grant even when holding or applying for a current grant in another category within the Archives and Libraries Grant Programme.

- If your institution currently holds a grant from the Foundation and a report on this grant has not been supplied within the last 6 months, then you will be asked to submit an interim project update on the project along with your institution's application.

- An organisation may apply to more than one grant programme (i.e. you can apply to both the Archives and Libraries and to the Museums Grant Programmes). However, it is unlikely that both will be funded.

If you are uncertain about the eligibility of your proposed project, please contact the Rothschild Foundation Hanadiv Europe with a specific query. Email your query to Ms Rebecca Singer on R.singer@rothschildfoundation.eu

In the application you will be asked some generic questions about your organisation's budget and staff. In addition, if you are awarded a grant, you will be required to upload supporting documentation. See below.

Please note - questions marked with a * [red asterisk] must be filled in or our system will not be able to accept your application. Other than the questions relevant to a project involving digitisation, all other questions are compulsory – if there is a reason you cannot answer a question, please explain your reasons.

Submitting supporting documentation with the application

Please make sure you have submitted the following with your application. If it is not included, your application cannot be considered.
