

Application Guidance

Departmental Initiative Grants

Deadline for submission: Tuesday 13 January 2026

Support is available for Jewish Studies Departments and Centres to launch new initiatives building on their existing strengths and increasing their impact.

Initiatives can focus on teaching and students (curriculum development, teaching positions, visiting lectureships, funding for studentships, fieldtrips, and resources), collaborative research projects, and/or dissemination and public engagement. Departments need to demonstrate all proposed activities relate to a comprehensive plan for departmental sustainability and development.

RFHE is particularly interested in initiatives related to the study of contemporary European Jewish communities and projects related to digital humanities.

Note: applicants interested in funding a Jewish language teaching position can use this grant category, which has replaced the standalone Jewish Language Teaching Fellowships grant category.

Eligibility

Eligibility criteria

We welcome applications from universities based in Europe, EU and non-EU states alike, except for Ukraine, Russia and Belarus.

The organisation's activities must operate on a not-for-profit basis and we will require proof of this status. This includes:

- UK organisations with charitable status under UK charity law (for further information please refer to the Charity Commission website and its list of Charitable Purposes)
- International organisations that operate as non-profit or not-for-profit entities in their respective countries (e.g. state or private libraries, archives, museums, universities, research institutes or cultural centres)

Please note: if your organisation is in the process of obtaining not-for-profit or charitable status, no payments will be made until this status is confirmed. Additionally, if your organisation is awarded a grant but fails to secure this status within three months of receiving notification, the grant will be cancelled.

Eligible topics

All topics within the broad field of Jewish Studies are considered eligible for the Foundation's Jewish Studies grants. The Foundation particularly welcomes applications from those engaged in the study of contemporary Jewish life in Europe from a social science perspective and those whose proposals involve digital humanities research techniques.

In principle, projects only tangentially related to Jewish Studies are unlikely to be successful, nor will projects devoted to an individual or individuals who happen to be Jewish, but whose historical importance is not significantly contingent on that biographical fact. Secondary school education, informal education and documentary films will not be funded within the context of the Academic Jewish Studies grant programme.

For more information on Jewish Studies please read our AJS FAQs.

Eligible costs

Potential costs can include: salaries, studentships, visiting lectureships, research costs, funding publications and other dissemination activities, public engagement, fieldtrips, conferences, curriculum development, resources (books/IT, etc.), networking with other departments/centres across Europe, and other costs to be discussed with RFHE.

If you are uncertain about the eligibility of your proposed project or project costs, please contact Dr Ruchama Johnston-Bloom.

Open Access policy

A fundamental component of the Rothschild Foundation Hanadiv Europe's mission is to increase access to European Jewish heritage and culture.

We encourage grantees to publish their Foundation-funded research in peer-reviewed journals with an open access option, and to make their articles freely accessible whenever possible. Should an article based on Foundation-funded research be accepted for publication, grantees may apply to the Foundation for funding to cover costs associated with open access publication, such as article processing charges.
